Uniquely appropriate for this volume: Museum für angewandte Kunst (abbreviation - MAK), the Austrian Museum of Applied Arts

Services for at-risk children and families or community centers for our older neighbors worldwide.

Your local food pantry so people under high levels of stress need not also go hungry.

The Antique Pattern Library project is an excellent opportunity to support access to publications similar to this one. This service provides scans of craft pattern publications that are in the public domain or have permission to post. Many are edited for modern craftworkers and their technologies, http://www.antiquepatternlibrary.org/index.htm.

Donations to your local library, a community college, or other learning scholarship fund are valuable local investments.

Consider also the Internet Archive (https://archive.org/) as it helps make many resources like this one available to all of us.

- I would be surprised if any person or organization returns even a nominal donation.

Stickmuster galizischer Hausindustrie, Marie Schramm, 1878

There are two European historic regions that are identified as Galicia, one which is part of Spain and the other, also known as Galizia, is a European geographic and historical known since the 1300s and was eventually assumed into the Austro-Hungarian Empire. The area spanned what is now southeastern Poland and western Ukraine. The focus of this book's collection of embroidery patterns is of the work of people who lived in latter area, central Europe, during the late 1800s.

During the late-middle 19th century though the early 20th century many members of the Austro-Hungarian Empire gathered the arts and crafts created by unique subcultures across nearby regions and shared these works more widely. Given that most rural subsistence farmers of that era did not have the time or opportunities to widely share their traditional needle craft designs, the scholars and entrepreneurs, often women, who traveled across these regions recording the local designs have helped preserve these gifts of our world history.

The designs provided in this book were transcribed from their original sources by Marie Schramm in 1878. Schramm's artworks are held in the Museum für angewandte Kunst (abbreviation - MAK), the Austrian Museum of Applied Arts. Digitized versions of these originals are available online at https://www.mak.at.
